

DEER ON YOUR DOORSTEP

WHY ARE WE SEEING MORE DEER IN AND AROUND TOWNS?

Deer populations are flourishing on the edges of our town and cities.

Deer numbers are increasing because of habitat creation, green networks and tree planting.

Deer like cultivated and other ground close to towns, development and abandoned industrial sites, leisure areas such as golf courses and parks, and woodland.

Deer are increasingly making their way into towns and cities, into allotments and gardens, and coming into contact with the public.

Deer are a valuable part of Scotland's natural heritage. People like to see deer - but not always.
